Canoe Marathon July 30-31

More than 30 teams of two paddlers each are set for the 24th running of the World Championship AuSable River Canoe Marathon to be held July 30-31 on the mainstream of the famous AuSable River.

The 240 mile length of the race — non stop — is the most grueling test of endurance for canoers in the United States. Starting at 10:00 p.m., July 30 at Grayling on the upper reaches of the AuSable River, the marathon canoe racers will paddle through the night, guided by instinct, the currents and a small light in the bow of their canoe until dawn. When the sun rises, leaders in the event will reach the first of five dams over which they must portage. Behind them is the 6.8 MPH current. They now face four more long stretches of backwaters behind four more dams before a final near-sprint to the finish line at Oscoda mid-afternoon, July 31.

Entries are expected from 10 states including Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, New York, Texas, Florida, Kentucky and Michigan. Other entries are anticipated from Canada. Last year's winners, Luc Robitard and Claude Corbin from Quebec set a new record for the race with a time of 15 hours and 42 minutes. Second place finishers crossed the line only a few minutes later.

That the marathon is grueling cannot be denied. More than half of the entries which include amateurs are likely to drop out. More than $3,000 dollars in guaranteed prize money is offered for the professionals with trophies to top amateur teams. The marathon is sanctioned by the Michigan Canoe Racing Association with co-operation from the chambers of commerce in Grayling, Glennie, Alcona County and Oscoda-AuSable and the East Michigan Tourist Association.

Conditions are ideal for the daytime canoeist. Rivers are low and clear. Early canoeists also have an opportunity to see deer, fawns, ducks, mink, and otter on the Main Stream and South Branch of the AuSable River, and the Upper Manistee.

Bloodmobile To Be Here July 28

When the Red Cross bloodmobile visits Grayling on July 28, when a person gives it, Doctors you will probably ask yourself, why should I give blood to the Red Cross. Many people at one time or another have asked this same question. Unfortunately, many have not thought out its answer.

When you give blood at a Red Cross bloodmobile you are not giving your blood to the Red Cross, you are giving it through the Red Cross. You are giving it to your friends, neighbors, and maybe someone in your own family.

Because you live in Crawford County, which participates in the Lansing Regional Red Cross Blood Program, the total blood needs of you, your immediate family, and your fellow county residents are covered, whether the need arises at home or away.

The blood program is everyone's organization. When you go to the bloodmobile, you will see both professional staff nurses and people from your own community working together to insure that blood is available when it is needed.

CAMP GRAYLING — A throng of dignitaries and the pageantry of military ceremonies dominated the annual review of the 38th Infantry Division, held Friday at the Camp Grayling review field.

Persistent rain and poor visibility forced cancellation of a planned flyover of Aviation Battalion aircraft but the remainder of the program went off on schedule.

Lawmakers, mayors and other government officials from Indiana joined with military officers from the states of Indiana, Ohio and Michigan on the reviewing stand. Medals and trophies were presented by Maj. Gen. Kenneth W. Brewer, commanding general of the division, and Maj. Gen. John N. Owens, Indiana Adjutant General.

Brewer himself was recipient of the Indiana Distinguished Service Medal for his performance during the four years he has served as commanding general.

An Artillery unit from Evansville, Ind., Battery B of the 2nd Battalion, 150th Artillery, was awarded the Eisenhower Trophy, conferred each year by the National Guard Bureau on the unit in each state judged most outstanding in the National Guard.

Highlights of the first week of the division's annual two-week active duty training period included the Civic Day observances on July 13. Civic leaders from Grayling, Gaylord and the Houghton Lake area, spent the afternoon in briefings and in the field, watching Guardsmen carry out their combat maneuvers.

The visitors were guests for a late afternoon reception sponsored by Maj. Gen. Brewer.

On Thursday, S/Sgt. Larry V. Varmo of Wheaton, Ill., was named the division's outstanding soldier of 1970. Varmo, who commutes from Illinois to Indianapolis for army drills, is a member of the 38th Aviation Battalion.

He received several awards at a luncheon and formally was presented the Schlatter Trophy on the next day at the division review.

Maj. Gen. W. S. Ryan, who serves as deputy commanding general for Reserve Forces in the northern area of the Fifth U.S. Army, arrived at Camp Grayling on Friday for a one-day tour which included witnessing the firing of two Honest John rockets by the Division Artillery.

This Monday, a contingent of Indiana newsmen arrived for two days of newsgathering efforts among Guardsmen from their home cities. The reporters also received briefings on the mission and operations of the division.

The 38th Division will leave Camp Grayling for home armories on Saturday. The final week of training emphasized tactical operations, with the division's headquarters transferring from the main camp area to the field for several days, and nights of maneuvers.

Regular Army officers have been spot checking and evaluating the performance of National Guard personnel during the training period.

Other members on the board of education are: Patrick Harwood of Lovells, Robert Smock, Sr., and James Kolka of Grayling and Gwen Johnson of Star Route, Grayling, newly elected to the board.

Also at the meeting, bids were opened for the purchase of $2,960,000 bond issue of the School District for the construction of the new high school. There were four bids submitted.

The Spokesmen Are Coming July 25

On Sunday, July 25th at 7:30 p.m. the Spokesmen will perform at the Michelson Memorial United Methodist Church. The group consists of 14 teen-age girls and eight teen-age boys. Their counselors, Mr. and Mrs. John Zeldman, and their two girls accompany them.

This Senior UMYF of Christ United Methodist Church, Fraser, attended the Taylor University Youth Conference last March and learned of Taylor's Wandering Wheels program. Taylor students ride their bikes from one side of the country to the other each summer, singing and sharing their faith in Christ along the way.

The Fraser youth borrowed on Taylor's idea, modified it and developed a highly successful "Spokesmen" program. The name has a double meaning: Spokesmen for bicycle spokes, and hopefully, Spokesmen for Christ.

The group sings contemporary sacred music to folk guitar and piano accompaniment. Their ministry has already reached 16 Michigan churches. In each church visited, the impact and response was similar; it was evident that God was speaking through the songs and words of the Spokesmen.

The program is open to everyone and the dress is informal. So come on out and enjoy both an inspirational and interesting program.

Two Fires Hit Stephan Wood Prod.

The Grayling Fire Dept. was called to the Stephan Wood Products at nine o'clock Wednesday, July 14. According to Chief Golinick, there was a fire in the sawdust blower, cause unknown, which caused no damage. Thirteen men answered the call. At 2:30 in the afternoon of the same day, they received another call. This time the fire was in a sawdust bin. Approximately $2500.00 damage was suffered, he said. Ten men answered the second call and the cause of this is also unknown.

At 5:10 p.m. Thursday, July 15, the department was called to the former Dave Cook home church visited, the impact and response was similar; it was evident that God was speaking through the songs and words of the Spokesmen.

The program is open to everyone and the dress is informal. So come on out and enjoy both an inspirational and interesting program.

Soil Conservationists Hear MSU Authority, Give Awards, Elect

The fourth annual meeting of the Crawford-Roscommon Soil Conservation District attracted students, adults, regional and state officers. Held Saturday, July 10th, at the Denton Township Hall in Prudenville, the meeting also provided an opportunity for local residents to hear Dr. Clifford Humphrys, the guest speaker, tell of studies of water quality which have been underway on Houghton, Higgins and Lakes St. Helen, during the past year.

Doctor Humphrys explained the methods being used by some 800 students under his supervision as they investigate various uses and activities which have a bearing on water quality. He also pointed out that in this and other areas the highest degree of water purity is found where strong associations of property owners maintain constant safeguards. The "Conservationist of the Year" award was made to Lynn (Mrs. William) Swift. Mrs. Swift was recognized for her work with the students of Gerish-Higgins Schools. Under her direction students have assisted in the water quality studies, participated in clean-up programs, and become involved and concerned with many ecological problems.

Her elementary school students have developed a nature trails. She was active in Earth Day activities in April 1970 and May 1971. In addition to her

Stephan Reunion Held on July 4th

The annual Stephan family reunion was held at Hartwick Pines on July 4th, with 23 members present. Because of the recent death of our president, Lacey Stephan Sr., Norval Stephan took over his duties for the day.

The oldest man present was Warren Vallad with the oldest lady being Myrtle Vallad. The youngest member was David Stephan, son of the Lacey Stephens Jr., and coming the farthest distance was Steve and Irene Stephan of Cadillac.

Discussion was held and it was voted to discontinue having the reunions because of the lack of interest in the members. Those attending from out of town were from Traverse City and Cadillac.

KEEP AMERICA BEAUTIFUL!

"While serving with Marine Composite Reconnaissance Squadron One, Marine Aircraft Group Eleven, First Marine Aircraft Wing in connection with combat operations against the enemy in the Republic of Vietnam from 20 April to 1 July, 1970, Staff Sergeant Rhatigan performed his duties in an exemplary and highly competent manner. As Noncommissioned Officer in Charge of the Flight Equipment Shop, he displayed outstanding initiative and perseverance despite the extremely adverse conditions and difficulties associated with a combat environment. By his consistently high level of efficiency, he materially enhanced the operational effectiveness of his unit and gained the respect and admiration of all who associated with him. Demonstrating superb professionalism and technical skill, he ably coordinated the assignment of all necessary personal flight equipment to newly joined aviation officers and implemented weekly inspections which ensured that all flight and survival equipment was constantly maintained in a high state of operational readiness. During incorporation of a service change on his Squadron's survival equipment, Staff Sergeant Rhatigan recognized that the transition would jeopardize the aircrew members' rappelling capability and skillfully devised a simple method which incorporated a snap link as a lower brake point on the integrated torso harness, thereby contributing significantly to the safety of his Squadron's flight crews. Staff Sergeant Rhatigan's outstanding professional ability, untiring determination, and steadfast devotion to duty throughout his tour in the Republic of Vietnam reflect great credit upon himself, the Marine Corps, and the United States Naval Service.

Staff Sergeant Rhatigan, a resident of Roscommon, Mich., is married to the former Carmela F. Giardina of Roscommon, Mich.

Dear Friends and Gentle Hearts:

Moose Dog died, at 2:50 a.m. Tuesday, 6 July 1971. She just died quietly in her sleep, with dignity — and at home among those she loved, and who loved her.

Paraphrasing Robert Louis Stephenson, there have always been dogs, and classes of dogs, that stand above the common herd: the Collie frequently, the Saint Bernard almost as a rule. In keeping with her double-thoroughbred ancestry, Moose exhibited (as it seems to us) those traits of character held to be most admirable: devoted loyalty, tested in a thousand night-time "alarms and excursions"; patience, tried by hundreds of times of waiting for the unknown; and — what is more important — a consistent and enduring (because earned, and maintained) self-respect, and, therefore, respect for others deserving it.

Gentleness she had, such as is not known by those who clamor for attention, or kill for the joy of the killing; hers too was a keen sense of "duty, order, self-restraint, obedience, discipline", reminiscent of Kipling's Scottish steamship engineer, McAndrew; and dignity so admirable as to be almost humbling.

So it was, that she brought a strong sense of security, and great peace of mind, into our home — and often enough, though not so often as she desired, brought deep warmth and affection into our lives.

It would be easy to say, "There will never be another dog like dear, good Moose". But that's nonsense because as long as love, in its broadest and best meaning, exists, just so long will there be good dogs, and good people — and all of them good for each other.

We're sorry to tell you that you'll never see Moose again. But we are glad to thank you, who knew and admired her so much, for her having had so many friends.

"Hall of Fame, New York University" is the way our photographer labeled this shot. Then our editor strained his eyes to see if he could make out any of the names of these great men on the tablets below the busts. He couldn't! Seven great men, but their names are lost in the shadows.

Nor does that fact obscure their greatness. The contribution each made to his fellow men remains. Yes, their greatness lies in the kind of men they were. The goals they strove for. The fruits of their perseverance and dedication.

They are not great men because they are in bronze. The bronze came later!

The largeness or smallness of our lives is measured in what we are, what we strive to be, what we aim to contribute. Yet these human elements are insufficient without the divine element—faith in God.

Today the Church is helping to mold greatness in many men. Someday a grateful posterity will cast a few of them in bronze.

Nasty, Brutish And Short

The inconsistency of those who think the solution to today's problems lies in withdrawing into a sort of social and intellectual vacuum — or into an imaginary yesterday — has been well described by Marshall S. Armstrong, president of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. He speaks specifically of the young dropouts who live in hundreds of so-called communes or collectives and sustain themselves by doing odd jobs, raising food and making handicraft articles.

He questions neither their sincerity nor their desire to simplify their lives. But, he asks, "whether they are not deluding themselves . . . living in small, separate groups, with a minimum of organization, means a return to hand-made tools, to a food supply rarely above the subsistence level . . . it would also mean an end to books, most musical instruments, recorded music, photography, modern medicine and surgery." It would mean "that for the great majority of individuals in such a society, life would be, in the words of Thomas Hobbes, 'solitary, poor, nasty, brutish and short'."

Living On Reputation

Attempting to live on reputation alone is usually disastrous as companies and individuals have found out to their sorrow. In an editorial, entitled "The not so affluent society," Life magazine comments, " . . . look at what has happened to the rewards paid solely to the family breadwinner for a given amount of work. The most reliable yardstick, which goes back many years, is 'spendable earnings' after taxes for an average factory worker with three dependents. In 1940, on the eve of World War II, such a worker's take-home pay was just under $25 a week. By 1965 it had climbed impressively to $43 in 1940 purchasing power. But here's the rub: this figure has not advanced at all since 1965, despite the big wage increases won by some unions. Indeed, the Vietnam war, inflation and skyrocketing state and local taxes slightly reduced the average production worker's purchasing power in the late 1960's, even before the recession set in . . . for all that talk of the new leisure society, most of us will have to go on working, just as industriously as we do now."

The belief that work has gone out of style and that government and private industry are "mother lodes" of wealth is indicative of a country living on its reputation.

Whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God.
Ruth 1,16

These words from the Old Testament say it as well as it can be said. We shall go through life together, hand-in-hand, rejoicing with the times that are good, helping to pass through the days that are bad. We shall have our moments of pride and our times of sorrow. But we shall be together, sharing faith in the present and hope for tomorrow.

SPORTS CORNER

by PETER G. HAMMOND
Executive Director, National
Coordinating Council on Drug Education

The flow of narcotics into the United States continues to increase despite intensified law enforcement efforts to control the traffic at the borders. Heroin, one of the principal narcotic drugs of misuse in this country, is produced by a chemical process from morphine which is derived from opium. Gum from the pods of the poppy plant produce opium. Since the production of illicit opium is extremely widespread in the Near and Far East and vast complex networks have been established as smuggling routes, U.S. legislators are looking toward control of poppy production as the most feasible way to diminish the chances of heroin or opium reaching the point of entry.

There are two basic approaches to the control of illegal production. One is to withhold United States military and economic assistance from countries which fail to take the necessary steps to eliminate crop production. The other approach offers a "carrot" as well as a "stick." Recognizing the fact that the largest opium producing countries are underdeveloped nations, legislation has been introduced to create an adequate fund within an international organization, such as the United Nations, to provide technical assistance. In some areas crop substitution will be sufficient. In other areas it will also be necessary to build transportation and distribution facilities for the new crops or to provide alternative sources of employment. The other aspect of this approach is law enforcement assistance to gain control in remote rural areas where the local governments are currently ineffective.

Foam Rubber Passes The 'Pill' Fire Test

Carpet manufacturers have voluntarily agreed to build a higher level of flame retardance into their products than government flammability requirements demand. The carpet producers have decided to require all high density latex foam rubber carpet backings to pass the "pill" test. In this test, an aspirin-tablet sized chemical pill is placed on the carpet, and lighted. When the pill is consumed, the flames must extinguish themselves. The fire cannot spread more than three inches in any direction. Present government rules call for use of the pill on the carpet face, but the manufacturers have voluntarily agreed to test the foam rubber backings too.

Who's Civilized?

'What This Country Needs Is . . .'

A recent letter to the editor I spotted in a nearby newspaper exhibited a state of high dudgeon by the writer in regard to the Michigan Legislature.

"What this country needs," concluded the irate taxpayer, "is a dose of good, old-fashioned integrity, and in lieu of politicians, statesmen to manage and guide the government."

These thoughts are not original with this particular letter writer. Most of us have heard them many times, and even expressed them ourselves from time to time. I may even have used the exact wording in a little speech to the Rotary Club that time.

The particular incident that set off the letter writer was a remark attributed to State Rep. William R. Copeland of Wyandotte, who is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Assaying the results of a recent inquiry into welfare spending, Copeland was reported to have been somewhat relieved that the level of waste was not the $15 million level expected, but merely $1 million, which he described as "peanuts."

Rep. Copeland certainly was ill-advised to refer to $1 million in wasted money as "peanuts," and he probably has regretted that he used this reference—at least within earshot of a reporter.

But apparently he did, and it touched off several people, including the irate letter writer.

My point of concern in this particular essay, however, is the cry for fewer politicians and more statesmen.

What is the difference between these strange species of public servants anyway? When does a politician cease being a politician and start being a statesman?

That is really an unanswerable question. One rule of thumb that is helpful is that generally speaking, a statesman is a public official who agrees with you, while a politician is one who disagrees.

For example, Rep. Copeland probably believes along with most of us that what this country needs—and what the Michigan legislature needs especially—is more statesmen and fewer politicians.

But just as likely, Rep. Copeland probably looks upon himself as one of those needed statesmen, and not one of the unwanted politicians. Most elected or appointed public officials see themselves that way.

What's wrong really with being a successful politician? Politics has been defined as the art of getting things done, and in the generally accepted references, getting things done through government. You'll notice I said politics was an art and not a science, and this is important because politics involves working with people, and working with people is an art; some guys have it and some guys never will.

But anyway, success in politics for the public official generally means staying in office as long as he chooses to stay there—and, of course, by his own standards, accomplishing something of value along the way.

The way a person stays in office is to keep getting elected, and the way he keeps getting elected is by keeping more people happy with what he's doing than mad at him.

Every once in a while—probably not often enough, in my opinion—some unhappy constituents get together to throw the rascals out; that's where the control in politics originates—with the voters, who are interested enough and concerned enough to do something about how their government operates by getting involved in the political process.

And so it goes. One man's politician is another man's statesman, and vice versa.

A time-honored maxim I heard long ago has much merit: The first thing required to be a statesman is to get elected, and the second requirement is to get reelected.

Thought For Food

Thinly slice 1 pound small zucchini (about 6 squash). Lightly brown in 3 tablespoons butter about 5 minutes. Sprinkle with 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1/4 teaspoon oregano, and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Pour 1 can (1 pound) tomatoes over. Simmer, covered, over low heat 12 to 15 minutes, or until zucchini is tender. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Spread potato chips in single layer on baking sheet. Sprinkle lightly with garlic salt and seasoned salt. Toast in 400 degree F. oven 3 to 5 minutes. Serve piping hot.

For a special club style sandwich, stack thinly sliced leftover roast beef or pork, coleslaw, crisp bacon, tomato slices and sliced stuffed olives between two slices of toasted wheat bread spread lightly with cream cheese.

Create a juicy spicy frankfurter specialty. Just heat canned barbecued ground beef and spoon over the hot franks on buns.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

ATTITUDE

Some of us are too busy to give God more than an hour or two of our time. Yet we are quick to ask God to come to the rescue when things seem to get out of control.

We have no right to beg, demand or ask miracles. We should not believe that a moment or deprivation can be made "right" again merely because we ask God for help and relief.

What we need is a constant faith, faith in the goodness of God, and in the belief that each individual has an eternal purpose and an ultimate destiny.

There are no guarantees. But there is the promise of comfort and strength — if we believe in God, if we rely on faith and prayer.

Farmers paid $1.9 billion in federal and state income taxes in 1969.

"If It Fitz . . ."

Another Dream Shattered

—By Jim Fitzgerald

I never would have believed it. I should be laughing but here I am crying.

All my life I have had only one modest ambition. I wanted to own my own private poolroom and bar.

Other men want to be president, or to fondle the town doll, or to own exclusive rights to sell GM records to GM. Some men yearn most to break 90 at golf, or shoot their way to safety through a herd of rampaging deer.

To each his own. I always wanted my own bar and poolroom.

When I was about 15, some of my relatives began insisting I was a poolroom bum. But a couple of years later, some other relatives disagreed, claiming I was a barroom bum. I used to be confused myself about which I wanted most to be. But then all the bars began installing pool tables and I realized happily that it was possible to be both.

Unfortunately, it was at about this same time that I got married and both noble activities, bar and pool, were severely curtailed. It is difficult to be either type of bum when you are married to a woman who won't let you empty the garbage after sundown for fear you might escape in the dark.

The only answer was to install my own bar and poolroom in our basement. It took me 16 years to save enough money. I did it by depositing $1 in an old shoe everytime my wife caught me running toward the bright lights with the garbage.

So now the bar is built, a splendid thing where I can prop one foot higher and the top fits perfectly under my elbow. On the other side of the room the space is cleared and the lights are waiting. A magnificent pool table is ordered and will arrive any day.

So why am I crying when I should be laughing? I guess it's the principle of the thing. . .

Behind the bar my wife has added a few things I hadn't planned on. Such as a range and oven and refrigerator and sink. They're nice, of course, and I really didn't mind much until yesterday when she said:

"How do you like the blue Formica I ordered for the counter tops in the kitchen?"

KITCHEN! She is calling my bar a kitchen. I am sick.

And I am sicker when I look at my poolroom area and see a piano. I can hear her now: "Jim is down in the music room playing eight ball."

She has probably hired a little old lady in an embroidered apron to tend bar and rack balls. And if I hang around too much, she'll probably tell everyone I'm a kitchen bum.

Consumers Want to Know

by MARGARET SPADER
Director of Consumer Affairs
National Association of Manufacturers

What does the word "biodegradable" mean on detergent packages?

A biodegradable material is one which the useful bacteria commonly found in sewage, surface waters and soils can attack, break down and utilize as food.

Are all detergents biodegradable?

All laundry and cleaning products now manufactured for use in the United States are biodegradable.

What types of detergents cause excessive foaming on lakes, streams and in sewage treatment plants?

When detergents first came on the market they contained an ingredient called alkyl benzene sulfonate which was slow to break down, causing excess foaming. In mid-1965, the detergent industry completed more than a decade of research and converted to the use of another ingredient called linear alkylate sulfonate which is biodegradable. Since the conversion there has been a dramatic reduction in foaming incidents.

Do today's detergents break down the way they are supposed to in septic tanks and cesspools?

The answer is yes, in a properly functioning septic tank and tile drain field system. It should be noted, however, that septic tanks and cesspools are not highly efficient waste treatment devices, and are largely intended for rural use.

Why do some detergent packages list "phosphorus" content rather than the "phosphate" content?

There are different kinds of phosphates used in detergents and they can be listed in several different ways. The use of a common designation "phosphorus" eliminates confusion. About 25 percent of the phosphate used in detergents is phosphorus, which is the part being questioned with regard to the spring or life cycle of a lake.

Jack Pine's Stump

The other day I heard one of our established citizens grumbling about the Guard. It would appear that he has been inconvenienced by the traffic on the road, the crowds in the streets and stores and the general busy activity around our happy little community. This same fellow has also been heard to complain loudly about taxes. Apparently he has never understood that traffic means business and business means income and income helps all of us. I can turn off people like that real quickly. They bore me. I, for one, welcome the Guard and am glad to see them here. Not many people realize all the good these men do for the community — and not only in an economic sense. The desire the Guard has to participate in community affairs is expressed in many ways — as for instance the Indiana Guardsman who broadcasts Guard information daily on the local radio station.

While on the subject of the Guard, when the Youth Booster Club had their amazingly successful spaghetti dinner a while ago, "Rutkowski's Raiders", a Guard group, volunteered to help clean up the Legion Hall the following day. I have been asked to publicly thank all the others who worked on that dinner. Sandy Thompson is at the top of the list for providing facilities and the fine band which played for dancing afterwards. The eager, willing kids who waited table, Jim and Lois Bendig, Chuck and Shirley Bonamie, Marie and Tom St. Germain, Phyllis Thompson and Eileen Green, Ace and Betty Worden, Art Clough and Mike Marks, Jack and Betty Mead, Jim Kitchen, Tom LaMotte, Tom Prill and Jack Pine. There must have been more, and if I left anyone out, I'm sorry. But I didn't make up the list.

If you've half a mind to watch TV, that's enough.

One day last week I pulled the car out onto M-72 west. Coming my way was a steady stream of vehicles, mainly Guard trucks. Behind me cars and trucks extended for a long ways. Just ahead, off on the shoulder was a small boy on an oversize bike. He lost control in the sand and swerved out onto the highway and fell down. Very luckily I was able to stop and so were the cars in back of me. But it was just sheer luck. Highways are no places for bicycles, but then neither are most of the shoulders. They're just too rough and too sandy. I really don't know what the kids are supposed to do, and I wouldn't want to see their use of bikes limited, but I sure hate ageing five years in five seconds.

"Mommy, will you give me a dollar to be good?" "Why can't you be good for nothing, like your father?"

From a recent issue of "Grit" comes the following: An artist who was employed to renovate and retouch the great oil paintings in an old church in Belgium presented a bill of $67.30 for his services. Church officials, however, asked him for an itemized record of his work, and this is what they got: For correcting the Ten Commandments - $5.12; For touching up Purgatory and restoring lost souls - $3.06; For renewing Heaven and adjusting stars - $7.14; For putting new stone in David's sling, enlarging head of Goliath - $6.13; Brightening up the flames of Hell, putting new tail on the Devil and doing odd jobs for the damned - $7.17; Mending shirt of Prodigal Son and cleaning his ear - $3.39; Embellishing Pontius Pilate and putting new ribbon on his bonnet - $2.02; Putting new tail and comb on St. Peter's rooster - $2.20; Re-plumbing and re-gilding left wing of the Guardian Angel - $5.18; Washing the servant of High Priest and putting carmine on his cheek - $5.02; Taking spots off the son of Tobias - $10.30; Putting earrings in Sarah's ears - $5.26; Decorating Noah's Ark and new head on Shem - $4.31. TOTAL: $67.30.

Mercy Hospital Auxiliary

The Mercy Hospital Auxiliary extends its thanks to everyone who tried to help them name their new gift cart.

So many clever suggestions were received that it was hard for the committee in charge to decide which one was best. From the list they chose "Mercy Maid", which was short, appropriate and appealing.

When the name of the person who sent in "Mercy Maid" was checked, the winner of the Grayling State Bank's $10.00 prize was William Valusek, our city manager.

Mr. Valusek felt that this project for the good of the hospital should be given all possible encouragement, and he generously donated his prize to the Auxiliary fund. We appreciate his kindness.

Obituaries

Former Resident Succumbs July 12

Carl Kellogg, oldest son of the late J. E. and Sarah Burpee Kellogg, passed away on July 12 in Tucson, Arizona, at the age of 80.

His first place of employment was at the Morley Lodge on the North Branch of the AuSable, driving for the late P.F.H. Morley. He was later employed by the late T. E. Douglas at Lovells and George Burke, at Burke's Garage in Grayling. In the early 1920's he left Michigan to work in Old Mexico for the U. S. Graphite Co., where he later operated his own mine until his retirement. He returned to Tucson where he had maintained a home for several years.

He leaves two sons, Harold C. of Saginaw and Donald of Tucson; two daughters, Evelyn Sandusky of Phoenix and Dorothy Clark of Scottsdale, Arizona. He was married to the former Bertha Hangee of Sterling, who at one time taught at the old Kellogg School. She preceded him in death in 1920.

Tuberculosis

It's finally here. Those precious weeks when you and your family "get away from it all." Camping, a cozy cottage on the lake, or a visit to faraway relatives. But no matter where you go, there are many precautions you take before you leave on your vacation, such as tuning the car, checking the spare tire, stopping delivery of milk and newspapers, checking faucets and burners, and notifying the neighbors and police that you will be gone. But in the midst of all this precaution, said John R. Pettibone, President of the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, there may be one important thing you are overlooking that may put a stop to your vacation — your family's health.

It doesn't make sense to take chances, he said. Along with other safety checks be sure to have the entire family go for a physical examination, and be sure to include a tuberculin skin test as part of this examination. Undiagnosed TB can slow you down, put a stop to your vacation and seriously jeopardize the health of your family, Pettibone said.

However, if TB is caught in time it can be treated with modern drugs, and usually without a lengthy hospital stay. So really enjoy your vacation this year. Rest easy in the knowledge that you have done everything to protect your family. Call your doctor today and make that appointment.

Women of the Moose

Due to the 5th of July being a holiday, we held our chapter night program on the 6th. It was College of Regents program. College chairman, Lillian King held a very nice program. It was also the changing of her tassel from green to red tassel. We also welcomed our second college of regent member, Lucille Tetting.

Our meeting was called to order by senior regent Maggie Miller with 12 members present. After the meeting we adjourned to the basement for cake and coffee and a friendly get together.

On the 12th of July, we held a ritual practice. It was very nice. Hope we have more out to the practice. We are sure you would enjoy it.

The meeting on July 19th was called to order with ten members present. We balloted on three new members. All were accepted. We wish to express our appreciation to all the women who worked so hard to help put on the dinners on July 17 and 18.
